1. Organizational Overview

Founded in 2016, GOODProjects is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization committed to eliminating poverty and helping families achieve long-term self-sufficiency. Through its GOODZone initiative centered in Southwest DC's Ward 6, the organization provides wraparound services—including case management, youth enrichment, and workforce development—to more than 400 families and 200 youth each year.

Our mission is to empower 500 families to self-sufficiency and catalyze the GOODZone to be free from poverty and violence by 2030. We achieve this through a holistic Family Success Planning model that integrates economic mobility, education, and wellness within an evidence-based framework of resident-driven support.

Core objectives include:

- Strengthening resident stability through coaching, financial literacy, and housing navigation.
- Expanding youth academic achievement and social-emotional growth.
- Building neighborhood capacity through community events and collective impact partnerships.

GOODProjects works from its hub at King Greenleaf Recreation Center and serves families living in and around affordable housing communities such as Greenleaf Gardens, Syphax Gardens, Channel Square, and The Kiley apartments. Our ecosystem of support connects public, private, and philanthropic partners to advance housing stability and economic mobility for District residents.

2. Program Overview: Family Success in the GOODZone

Overview

This proposal seeks support for Family Success in the GOODZone, a community-based resident services initiative that provides family coaching and youth enrichment to residents of Southwest DC. The program directly supports families residing in DCHFA-financed and other affordable housing communities, strengthening the social fabric that sustains safe, vibrant neighborhoods.

Each family is paired with a Family Success Coach who conducts a comprehensive assessment across 10 domains: income, employment, education, housing, health, mental wellness, safety, social support, life skills, and community engagement. Together, they develop a customized Family Success Plan with short- and long-term goals. Progress is monitored quarterly through data-driven dashboards and personalized check-ins.

For youth within these families, the program offers academic support and character development through GOODCamp and after-school tutoring that builds academic confidence and healthy peer relationships.

Goals and Objectives

- Serve 150+ residents across Ward 6 through coaching and enrichment.
 - Increase household income stability and workforce participation.
 - Improve academic and social-emotional outcomes for participating youth.
 - Strengthen community cohesion through family workshops and neighborhood events.

3. Implementation Plan

Program activities operate year-round from the King Greenleaf Recreation Center (201 N Street SW). Family Success Coaches conduct weekly coaching sessions and monthly goal-tracking meetings, supplemented by quarterly community workshops on financial literacy, parenting, and wellness.

Sequential Implementation Steps:

1. Enrollment & Assessment (Month 1): Identify eligible families through referrals from schools, resident councils, and community partners; complete baseline Family Success Assessments.
2. Planning & Goal Setting (Months 1–2): Develop Family Success Plans detailing SMART goals across key domains.
3. Service Delivery (Months 3–12): Provide coaching, youth enrichment, and community linkages; conduct monthly progress reviews.
4. Monitoring & Evaluation (Ongoing): Track outcomes via GOODProjects dashboard and participant surveys; adjust plans based on data.

Marketing and outreach will be executed through community flyers, digital channels, and collaboration with Ward 6 schools and resident councils.

4. Evaluation Plan

GOODProjects employs a mixed-methods evaluation system based on the Family Success Planning SOP. Outcomes are tracked at the family and program levels through:

- Quantitative Metrics: income growth, employment gains, school attendance, academic progress, and housing stability.
- Qualitative Data: case notes, participant testimonials, and staff observations.
- Performance Benchmarks:
 - 80% of families achieve progress in at least five domains within 12 months.
 - 70% of youth show academic or behavioral improvement after six months.
 - 90% of participants report greater community connection and confidence in achieving goals.

Quarterly impact reviews are conducted with coaches and leadership to identify trends and adjust program delivery. Annual reports are shared with partners and funders to ensure accountability and continuous improvement.

6. Impact and Sustainability

When Ms. S, a single mother of three living in Southwest DC, joined the Family Success program in 2023, she was unemployed and facing eviction. Through monthly coaching and referrals to partner organizations, she started a business and gained secured housing within six months. Her children are now enrolled in GOODCamp and thriving academically. Today, she volunteers as a peer mentor to other families — a reflection of the program’s multigenerational impact.

The Family Success in the GOODZone program operates year-round, with each grant cycle supporting activities within DCHFA’s fiscal year (October 1 – September 30). Beyond this period, GOODProjects sustains and scales its programs through an innovative social enterprise model that reinvests surplus revenue into long-term family wealth and organizational growth.

GOODProjects generates sustainable funding through:

- Medicaid partnerships that reimburse services for community-based case management and behavioral health support, creating recurring revenue streams.
- Whole life insurance-backed Family Trusts, in which GOODProjects allocates a portion of earned surplus to fund policies for participating families. These policies build intergenerational wealth while creating long-term reinvestment capacity for the organization.
- Corporate and philanthropic partnerships that match public investments to expand resident services and youth engagement in the GOODZone.

This approach ensures that every dollar invested in GOODProjects contributes to a continuum of care for generations to come—advancing housing stability, economic mobility, and family wealth creation for District residents.

Acknowledgment of Funding Guidelines

GOODProjects understands that single grant awards range from $1 to $25,000 and acknowledges that the organization can carry out the proposed project even if partial funding is awarded. All funds will be used exclusively to provide, promote, and support the programs outlined above for the benefit of District residents.
