Budget Narrative

All requested funds are directed to direct project costs. No food, beverages, tuition, re-granting, or unallowable expenses are included.

Honoraria — $5,100

$3,500 in Honoraria: $1,200 is for 8 community narrator participants at $150 each, recognizing their time and contribution of personal civic memory to the historical record. $600 is for 8 BJF graduate co-participants at $75 each, recognizing their time as dialogue partners and community connectors. $500 is an additional facilitation honorarium for the Humanities Scholar's preparation and delivery of the half-day Orientation Workshop (approximately 12 hours of preparation and facilitation). $300 covers technical setup, file formatting, metadata tagging, and 12 months of hosting for the publicly accessible digital archive on GOODProjects.org. $900 is for the Humanities Scholar's base orientation and session participation fees (3 sessions × $300). The remaining $1,600 is the Humanities Scholar Honorarium split (see below).

Salary / Wages — $7,500

$5,000 supports the Project Coordinator (Cole Bradshaw) at approximately 20% FTE over 10 months to manage all project logistics: participant recruitment and scheduling, release form collection and tracking, venue coordination with King Greenleaf, transcript review oversight, archive population and quality review, and interim and final grant reporting. $1,700 covers the contracted filmmaker's post-production time beyond base filming — specifically color correction, sound mixing, and final cut of the 15–20 minute documentary compilation. $800 covers rental of professional supplemental audio equipment (wireless lapel microphones, backup recorders) for sessions where venue AV systems do not meet archival-grade standards.

Travel — $0

No travel expenses. All project activities take place at King Greenleaf Recreation Center (996 Maine Ave SW, Washington, DC), GOODProjects' operational home.

Supplies — $800

Archival-grade USB drives and redundant backup media for all raw audio and video recordings; printed release and informed consent forms for all participants; indexing and metadata preparation materials required for archival deposit. These supplies directly support Activity 4.

Publicity, Promotion & Printing — $700

500+ printed flyers and posters distributed at Southwest DC community hubs (churches, barbershops, libraries, senior centres, King Greenleaf); social media promotion via GOODProjects and BJF channels; and printed programs for the Activity 6 public launch and screening.

Facilities Rental — $1,000

Space rental at King Greenleaf Recreation Centre for six recorded dialogue sessions and the public launch event — estimated at $125 per session and $250 for the launch event. Some sessions may be at reduced cost through our community partnership; this reflects the full commercial rate as a ceiling.

Evaluation — $400

Design and administration of pre/post session participant surveys, launch event audience feedback forms, attendance tracking tools, and post-project impact analysis. Results will be compiled into a final evaluation report.

Other — $9,500

$8,000 is for the contracted Videographer/Audio Engineer, who will spend approximately 18 hours filming and audio-recording all six 60–90 minute dialogue sessions using archival-grade equipment, and approximately 30 hours editing the final 15–20 minute documentary compilation. $1,500 covers professional verbatim transcription of all six sessions (estimated 12 hours of recorded audio at approximately $2.08/minute), producing the transcripts required for the digital archive and public accessibility.

Humanities Scholar Honorarium (ECI — Phillipe M. Cunningham) — $2,500

Compensation for the Excellence in Changemaking Institute's sustained intellectual engagement across the full project period, reflecting approximately 50 hours of work: co-developing thematic interview frameworks; leading the half-day Orientation Workshop; participating in a minimum of three of the six recorded sessions; reviewing and providing historical contextualization for all six transcripts; writing interpretive archive notes to support researchers, students, and future scholars; and advising on the documentary's editorial framing. This reflects the significant intellectual leadership and active humanities interpretation — not merely facilitation — that ECI brings to this project.
